

Acknowledgements

My warm-felt gratitude and appreciation go to my supervisor, Prof. Dr. Nadja-Christina Schneider, for rigorous support, input, inspiration and patience. I thank colleagues and friends for all efforts of assistance in the process of conducting, writing, and finalising this journey, especially Prof. Dr. Maitrayee Chaudhuri (JNU), Prof. Dr. Biswajit Das (Jamia Millia Islamia), Prof. Dr. Manja Stephan-Emmrich (HU Berlin), and everyone else who has contributed with comments, proofreading, and feedback during the period of this project. Further appreciation goes to all the institutes that have supported this challenge financially or in the form of progressing the research pragmatically or through thematic discussions, including the Institute for Asian and African Studies (HU Berlin), Grænseforening, the Nordic Institute of Asian Studies (NIAS), the European Association for South Asian Studies (EASAS), Center for International Studies (CEI), ISCTE – University Institute of Lisbon (ISCTE-IUL), Swedish South Asian Studies Network (SASNET), and Deutsche Gesellschaft für Asienkunde (DGA). I, in particular, thank the people in the advertising industry and social organisations in Delhi and Mumbai willing to sit with me and have conversations and whose input and knowledge are the basis for this dissertation.
