

Contributors

Gnanasigamony Aloysius is a sociologist and historian, who works as an independent scholar in New Delhi. He is the author of Religion as Emancipatory Identity: A Buddhist Movement among the Tamils under Colonialism (New Delhi, 1998) and Nationalism without a Nation in India (Delhi, 2007).

Michael Bergunder is Professor of History of Religions and Intercultural Theology at the University of Heidelberg. He has recently published The South Indian Pentecostal Movement in the Twentieth Century (Grand Rapids, 2008) and edited Westliche Formen des Hinduismus in Deutschland (Halle, 2006).

Heiko Frese is an indologist and historian, affiliated to the University of Heidelberg. He is the author of Variationen von Wirklichkeit: das Bild Jayasthitimallas in der Bhasavamsavali (Hamburg, 2002), and co-editor of Text and Context in the History, Literature and Religion of Orissa (New Delhi, 2004).

Chris Fuller is Professor of Anthropology at the London School of Economics and Political Science. His major publications include The Renewal of the Priesthood: Modernity and Traditionalism in a South Indian Temple (Princeton, 2003) and The Camphor Flame: Popular Hinduism and Indian Society (Princeton, 1992). Haripriya Narasimhan is Research Fellow in Anthropology at the London School of Economics.

Mary Hancock is Professor of Anthropology and History at the University of California, Santa Barbara. She is the author of The Politics of Heritage from Madras to Chennai (Bloomington, 2008) and Womanhood in the Making: Domestic Ritual and Public Culture in Urban South India (Boulder, 1999).

Andreas Nehring is Professor of Religious Studies and Intercultural Theology at the University of Erlangen-Nürnberg. He is the author of Orientalismus und Mission: Studien zur Repräsentation der südindischen Kultur und Religion durch deutsche Missionare 1840-1945 (Wiesbaden, 2003), and co-editor of Religious Turns—Turning Religions: Veränderte kulturelle Diskurse, neue religiöse Wissensformen (Stuttgart, 2008).

Vakulabharanam Rajagopal is Lecturer at the Department of History, University of Hyderabad, India. He is the author of 'Fashioning Modernity in Telugu: Viresalingam and His Interventionist Strategy' in: Studies in History 21,1 (2005), and 'The Rhetorical Strategy of an Autobiography: Reading Satyavati's Atmacaritamam' in: Indian Economic and Social History Review 40,4 (2003).

Velcheru Narayana Rao is Professor Emeritus, Languages and Cultures of Asia, University of Wisconsin-Madison. He is the author of God on the Hill: Temple Songs from Tirupati (with David Shulman, New York, 2005), and the co-author of Textures of Time: Writing History in South India (Delhi, 2002).

Peter Schalk is Professor of History of Religions at Uppsala University in Sweden. His publications include Buddhism among Tamils in Pre-Colonial Tamilakam and Īlam (Uppsala, 2002) and God as Remover of Obstacles: A Study of Caiva Soteriology among Īlam Tamil Refugees in Stockholm, Sweden (Uppsala, 2004).

Ulrike Schröder is a scholar of history of religions, who currently works in the collaborative research centre 'Ritual Dynamics' at the University of Heidelberg. She is the author of Religion, Kaste und Ritual: Christliche Mission und tamilischer Hinduismus in Südindien im 19. Jahrhundert (Halle, 2009) and 'Hook-Swinging in South India: Negotiating the Subaltern Space within a Colonial Society' in: Negotiating Rites, ed. by U. Hüsken and F. Neubert (New York, 2010).

Torsten Tschacher is a south asianist and research fellow in the Cluster of Excellence 'Asia and Europe in a Global Context: Shifting Asymmetries in Cultural Flows' at Heidelberg University. He is the author of Islam in Tamilnadu: Varia (Halle, 2001) and 'Rational Miracles, Cultural Rituals and the Fear of Syncretism: Defending Contentious Muslim Practice among Tamil-speaking Muslims' in: Asian Journal of Social Science 37, 1 (2009).

Ravi Vaitheespara is Associate Professor for History at the University of Manitoba. His recent publications include Theorizing the National Crisis: Sanmugathasan, the Left and the Ethnic Conflict in Sri Lanka (Colombo, 2007) and 'Maraimalai Atigal and the Genealogy of the Tamilian Creed' in: Economic and Political Weekly, Vol. XLIV, No.14, April 4, 2009, pp. 45–51.

A. R. Venkatachalapathy is Professor of History at the Madras Institute of Development Studies, India. His recent publications include In Those Days There Was No Coffee: Writings in Cultural History (New Delhi, 2006) and Muccanti ilakkiyam (Nagercoil, 2004).