Rikkyo University - Research Fellowship

Rikkyo University, Tokyo, Japan, wishes to announce the establishment of a fellowship program for the purpose of encouraging international academic exchange. Under this program, scholars from abroad, utilizing Rikkyo's research facilities and research organization, can pursue their own specific research project or engage in joint research with members of Rikkyo's faculty. Together with this announcement, we are pleased also to invite applications for the inaugural awards of the fellowship.

The area of academic specialization should be in the humanities, the social sciences, or the natural science; and the specific subject of the research must be one that is compatible with the resources and facilities available at Rikkyo University.

Applications will be considered from full-time assistants (joshu), lecturers and instructors (koshi), assistant and associate professors (jokyoju), and professors (kyoju) who are members of (or affiliated with) a publicly recognized institution engaged in research and/or education.

A few awardees each year will be selected, within the limit of the funds available for the particular period covered by the solicitation. This inaugural solicitation covers the period from October 1985 to March 1987.

The minimum term shall be 3 months, and the maximum 12, with the additional proviso that, with respect to this inaugural solicitation the first month of the appointment shall fall between October 1985 and March 1987.
