MOFTEC Vice-Minister Sun Zhenyu and visiting US TDA Director Thelma Askey signed the agreement. Four relevant agreements on utilizing TDA aid for Shenhua's liquefied coal project, Shanghai's air monitoring project, Shandong's air monitoring project, and the China National Petroleum Corporation's oil pollution disposal automatic monitoring system were subsequently signed. Prior to the signing ceremony, Shi Guangsheng met Randt and Askey, during which he said that the signing of the framework agreement is very important to Sino-US economic and trade relations and Sino-US relations, and that it symbolizes a new development in the two countries' economic and trade relations. He said that safeguarding Sino-US sound economic and trade relations not only corresponds with the two countries' fundamental interests, but also benefits the comprehensive development of their relations. He hoped that both sides will make joint efforts to carry out the projects well. Randt and Askey hoped that trade development cooperation projects will restart in China to contribute to the development of the two countries' economic and trade relations. They believed that this will also play a positive role in China's economic development. When interviewed by reporters after the signing ceremony, Sun Zhenyu said that dozens of cooperation projects conducted by the TDA in China in the 1980s played a positive role in promoting Sino-US economic and trade relations and expanding US technological and equipment exports to China. The signing of the current framework agreement and the relevant four agreements will also further promote bilateral economic and trade relations. Sun Zhenyu said that following China's win in the Olympics bid and its readiness to join the WTO, the restoration of Sino-US trade development cooperation will promote the two countries' economic and investment development and their cooperation in the fields of energy, environment, and telecommunications. As learned, TDA cooperation with China started in the early 1980s. Between 1980 and 1989, both sides cooperated in 45 projects, and this cooperation promoted the two countries' relations in trade and investment. For reasons known to all, both sides suspended such cooperation in 1989 [following June 1989 crackdown on pro-democracy demonstrators in Tiananmen Square]. On 13th January this year, the US government announced the restoration of TDA aid to China. The signing of the current framework agreement and other relevant agreements today has a positive bearing on expanding Sino-US cooperation in the fields of energy, infrastructure, and environmental technology. Decision of the State Council on Amending the "Regulations for the Implementation of the Law of the People's Republic of China on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures" (Implemental Regulations). The decision will go into effect on the day of announcement. (Order No. 311 of the State Council, signed by Premier Zhu Rongji on 22nd July 2001) Responsible persons of the State Council Legislative Affairs Office and the Ministry of Foreign Trade and Economic Cooperation (MOFTEC) recently gave an interview to reporters on the amendment of the "Implemental Regulations". Question [Q]: Why did you amend the original regulations for the Implementation of the Law on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures? Answer [A]: The Law on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures was promulgated for implementation after its adoption at the 2nd session of the 5th NPC in July 1979 and its revision at the 3rd session of the 7th NPC in April 1990. Through its enforcement, this law has played an important role in implementing the policy of opening up to the outside world, promoting foreign investment, and expanding foreign economic cooperation and technological exchanges. In pace with the constant deepening of reform and opening-up to the outside world and constant development of the national economy in our country, the 4th session of the 9th NPC on 15th March 2001 made a second revision of the Law on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures [See C.a., 2001/3, p.321/23.] to suit it to the course of our country's WTO accession. The existing regulations for the Implementation of the Law on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures came into force upon issuance by the State Council on 20th September 1983. The State Council amended individual clauses on 15th January 1986 and 21st December 1987. To suit provisions in the "Implemental Regulations" to those in the law to facilitate correct implementation of the Law on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures, it is necessary to amend the "Implemental Regulations" accordingly. Q: What are the major contents of the amendment to the "Implemental Regulations"? A: This amendment to the "Implemental Regulations" has four main aspects: 1. In accordance with the decision adopted at the 4th session of the 9th NPC on amending the Law on Sino-Foreign Joint Ventures, we amended pertinent clauses in the "Implemental Regulations". We mainly deleted from the "Implemental Regulations" the provisions for Sino-foreign joint ventures' required exports manufacturing and substantive merits, domestic sale restrictions, and foreign-exchange funds income and expenditure arrangements; deleted the provisions for Sino-foreign joint ventures' production and operational planning and record filing requirements; deleted the provision for Sino-foreign joint ventures to as far as possible give priority to purchasing in China; and deleted the provision requiring Sino-foreign joint ventures to maintain a balance between their foreign exchange income and expenditure. 2. We amended clauses in the "Implemental Regulations" that were inconsistent with WTO rules and our external commitments. We mainly deleted from the "Implemental Regulations" the provision for substituting machine equipment to be contributed as investment by the foreign joint venturer with Chinese-made equipment and the provision requiring industrial property rights contributed as investment by the foreign joint venturer to be capable of producing exports or be of substantive merits, and have stipulated, in accordance with our external commitments, that industries in which Sino-foreign joint ventures are allowed shall be determined according to state provisions guiding the direction of foreign investment and to the guidance list of industries with foreign investment. 3. We amended clauses that clearly were inconsistent with laws, administrative laws and regulations, and relevant State Council rules currently in effect. We mainly amended the provisions on industrial and commercial registration, land use right acquisition and transfer, tariff and industrial and commercial consolidated tax reduction or exemption, labour management and the joint venture term of Sino-foreign joint ventures, and the liquidation of Sino-foreign joint ventures to dovetail the "Implemental Regulations" with relevant laws and administrative laws and regulations currently in effect; and - in accordance with the provisions in relevant laws such as the Company Law, the Accounting Law, the Income Tax Law for Enterprises with Foreign Investment and Foreign Enterprises, and the Legislation Law - amended the provision in the "Implemental Regulations" that Sino-foreign joint ventures shall not reduce their registered capital, provisions on accounting in foreign currency and financial and accounting reports, provisions on income clearing and tax payment by Sino-foreign joint ventures, and provision on the power of interpreting the "Implemental Regulations". 4. To adapt to new circumstances in the reform and development, we amended some provisions that clearly were unsuitable. We mainly deleted, in accordance with the requirements of reforming government institutions and changing their functions, from the "Implemental Regulations" the provisions on a department in charge of a Sino-foreign joint venture; deleted from the "Implemental Regulations" the provisions on channels through which foreign investors may seek cooperative partners, on Sino-foreign joint ventures' capital construction plans and funds, on goods and materials supply, and on marketing channels for products to suit the regulations to the development requirements of the market economy; amended - in the light of the new circumstances after the structural reforms in foreign exchange control and financial administration - the provisions in the "Implemental Regulations" on foreign exchange rates, on account opening and foreign exchange receipts and expenses administration, on loans, and on outward remittances; and, in view of the fact that enterprises - according to the principles of structural reform in price control - enjoy under the law the right to fix product prices by themselves, deleted from the "Implemental Regulations" the provision for price control on Sino-foreign joint ventures. CPI(A), CPI(B) and CPI(C) are compiled based on the expenditure patterns of households in the relatively low, medium and relatively high expenditure ranges respectively. A Composite CPI is compiled based on the overall expenditure pattern of all the above households taken together. The CPI(C) was formerly known as the Hang Seng CPI and was compiled by the Hang Seng Bank since 1974. Starting from the reference month of July 1999, the data collection and compilation work of the index have been taken up by the Census and Statistics Department and the index has been renamed as CPI(C).
