China's newly inaugurated pricing regulations are designed to make the rules easier to enforce, the SDPC said on 21 November. The "Provisions on Prohibiting Price Cheating" released recently by SDPC was the third such regulations issued since the Price Law came into effect. The SDPC has also released the Provisions on Prohibiting Dumping with Low Prices and the Provisions on Clear Labelling of Prices of Commodities and Services. The just-released rules clearly define price cheating, thus providing a sound basis for the operation of law enforcement agents. The new rules divide price cheating into two categories of activity: labelling and pricing. SDPC said that the new rules are designed to put into place the principles of open, fair and honest conduct in price competition. The new rules are part of the SDPC campaign to bring about market order over the next few years. (RMRB, XNA, 22 Nov 01)

A new regulation issued by the Supreme People's Court on 6th November will force judges to resign for negligence that damages state or social interests. The 11-article interim regulation, effective from 6th November, aims to "meet the requirements of the development of the socialist market economy and push forward the work of people's courts," said Liu Jiachen, vice-president of the Supreme People's Court. The legal basis of the document is the "Law on Judges of the PRC" and a regulation on the implementation of the responsibility system of keeping party work clean issued by the CCP CC and the State Council, he said. Those persons affected by the regulations include the heads or deputy heads of people's courts at all levels, as well as similar posts in special courts. According to the regulation, heads or deputy heads of courts should resign if wrong judgment in violation of law are issued in courts of their jurisdiction, and if such wrong judgment results in serious damage to state interests, public interests or people's lives and property. Court heads or deputy heads should resign if the court in charge hides or refuses to investigate cases that violate laws or regulation. If the court issues rulings that lead to serious incident and causes serious economic losses, heads or deputy heads should resign, the regulation said. According to Liu, those judges who have already been dismissed from their posts will not be affected by the regulation. Judges who are to get disciplinary or criminal punishment will receive these penalties even after they resign, he said. Liu said that the Supreme People's Court will strengthen the enforcement and adopt more measures to supervise judges, issue correct judgments, improve team building and strengthen court reform in a bid to realize the justice and efficiency of the Chinese courts. Note: Since August 2000, the „resident population“ approach has been adopted in place of the „extended de facto approach for compiling population estimates. In the above table, statistics which are population related have been revised accordingly and annotated with **. CPI(A), CPI(B) and CPI(C) are compiled based on the expenditure patterns of households in the relatively low, medium and relatively high expenditure ranges respectively. A Composite CPI is compiled based on the overall expenditure pattern of all the above households taken together. The CPI(C) was formerly known as the Hang Seng CPI and was compiled by the Hang Seng Bank since 1974. Starting from the reference month of July 1999, the data collection and compilation work of the index have been taken up by the Census and Statistics Department and the index has been renamed as CPI(C).
