The teaching of Chinese in France and French in China will also be promoted at all levels of education institutions. The number of French students studying Chinese has doubled in five years and now totals about 6,000 and the number of French institutions that teach Chinese has doubled in 10 years, according to the French Ministry of National Education. On the other hand, French has become a business language in China because of the important role that French enterprises play there. The two countries also promised to establish common references in training and qualification, to strengthen cooperation in training teachers for technical and professional education institutions and to set up partnership between each other's professional training institutions. Regulations on the administration of artificially induced weather, adopted at the 56th meeting of the State Council Standing Conference on 13th March 2002. The regulations, which consist of 22 articles, will come into force on 1 May 2002. (Order No. 348 of the State Council, signed by Premier Zhu Rongji on 19 March 2002). (Full text: RMRB, 28 Mar 02)

Regulations on the administration of geological data. The regulations, which consist of five chapters with 26 articles, will come into force on 1 July 2002. (Order No. 349 of the State Council, signed by Premier Zhu Rongji on 19 March 2002). (Full text: RMRB, 30 Mar 02)

The regulation for the management of China's geological data will enable the data to be used more extensively to boost the country's economic and social development, Ye Dongsong, viceminister of land and resources, said in Beijing on 4th April. Access to geological data used to be blocked by the different organizations who held it. Multiple ownership has meant wasted expenditure on data management. "The new regulation stipulates that noncommercial geological data must be accessible to everybody including foreign investors," said Shao Juenian, director of the mineral resources administration department under the Ministry of Land and Resources. Shao said that having access to the accurate data will help foreign companies reduce investment risks. Foreign investors began entering China's mineral industry in 1980s. However, one of their major difficulties has been limited access to basic geological information. The regulation divides the geological data into commercial and non-commercial categories. Non-commercial information can be used free of charge, but commercial information must be paid for. The regulation will improve the management of geological data. Illegal activities such as failing to submit geological data when required to do so, falsifying or blocking geological data, and disclosing confidential geological information will be punished according to the regulation. Statistics show that more than five million entries divided into 235,000 types have been submitted to the geological data bank by various organizations. China will standardize the collection of geological data, and will complete a national digital geological data museum by 2005. (XNA, 5 Apr 02)

State Council Decision on Amending the "Regulations for the Management of Funds Accumulated for Housing". The decision has become effective upon promulgation. (Order No. 350 of the State Council, signed by Premier Zhu Rongji on 24 March 2002). The regulations consist of 7 chapters with 47 articles. (Full text of the decision and the revised regulations: RMRB, 29 Mar 02)

The "Regulations for the Management of Funds Accumulated for Housing" (Order No. 262 of the State Council, issued on 3 April 1999) have been amended and re-promulgated on the basis of the decision. With authorization, Xinhua on 28th March transmitted the full text of these two documents. According to the decision, Article 8 of the original "Regulations for the Management of Funds Accumulated for Housing" has been amended to read: "Cities in which the people's governments of municipalities under the central government's direct jurisdiction, provinces, and autonomous regions are located, as well as other cities (prefectures, autonomous prefectures and leagues) that have administrative districts, shall establish committees for managing their funds accumulated for housing, and these committees shall function as bodies making decisions relevant to the management of funds accumulated for housing. In these committees, one-third of the members shall be responsible persons of the people's governments, construction and financial departments, People's Bank, and experts in relevant fields; one-third of the members shall be representatives of trade unions and workers' congresses; and one-third of the members shall be representatives from various units." Article 10 has been amended to read: "According to the principles governing simplicity and efficiency, cities in which the people's governments of municipalities under the central government's direct jurisdiction, provinces, and autonomous regions are located, as well as other cities (prefectures, autonomous prefectures and leagues), shall establish centres for managing the funds accumulated for housing." The first clause of Article 12 has been amended to read: "In light of the relevant regulations of the People's Bank of China, committees for the management of funds accumulated for housing shall designate their commercial banks commissioned for handling the financial affairs relevant to the funds accumulated for housing; and centres for managing funds accumulated for housing shall entrust these commissioned banks to handle financial affairs relevant to the funds accumulated for housing, such as extending loans and settling accounts, as well as opening fund accounts, depositing money into these accounts, and returning the money deposited into these accounts." The original Article 39 has become Article 41, which has been amended to read: "Anyone who has violated these regulations and used the funds accumulated for housing for other purposes, the State Council construction department, or the construction departments of the people's governments of provinces and autonomous regions, shall act in accordance with their administrative authority, recover the misused funds accumulated for housing and confiscate the illegal incomes; investigate the criminal responsibilities of the responsible persons of the people's government who misused or approved the use of funds accumulated for housing, responsible persons of the relevant departments, administrators, or other directly responsible persons of the centre for managing the funds accumulated for housing; and those whose responsibilities are not serious enough for criminal punishments shall be disciplined in the form of demotion or dismissal." A new version of the Measures on Software Copyright Registration, which was revised to meet with the World Trade Organization (WTO) requirements, came into effect recently, sources told a news conference in Beijing on 4th March. The new version is in line with China's amended Copyright Law, passed by the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress on 27 October 2001, and the Regulations on Software Protection Measures, which came into effect on 1 January 2002. Chinese software copyright holders are permitted by the revised measures, effective since 20 February 2002, to choose whether or not to register their products with the China Copyright Protection Centre (CCPC), the country's official copyright registration institution. This meets the WTO regulation that software copyright should be protected, even if not registered. It was compulsory for software copyright holders to register their products before the recent revision of the regulations, said Xu Chao, vice-director of Copyright Department, National Copyright Administration. However, the new measures still encourage software developers to register with the CCPC, which will provide reliable and traceable copyright information and assist in the settlement of software copyright disputes. At present, most CCPC software copyright holders are domestic software developers. Since the registration measures demand software developers provide source code pieces, foreign brands are usually reluctant to register, fearing technology secrets could be leaked, Xu Chao said. The measures were revised to make copyright registration more convenient for software developers, shortening the former three-month application period to the present 60 days and vowing to build more CCPC registration outlets across the country. Statistics show that 1,500 and 3.380 software were registered with the CCPC in 1999 and 2000 respectively. The number rocketed to a record 7,000 in 2001 and is widely expected to rise further. Note: Since August 2000, the "resident population" approach has been adopted in place of the "extended de facto approach for compiling population estimates. In the above table, statistics which are population.related have been revised accordingly and annotated with . CPI(A), CPI(B) and CPI(C) are compiled based on the expenditure patterns of households in the relatively low, medium and relatively high expenditure ranges respectively. A Composite CPI is compiled based on the overall expenditure pattern of all the above households taken together. The CPI(C) was formerly known as the Hang Seng CPI and was compiled by the Hang Seng Bank since 1974. Starting from the reference month of July 1999, the data collection and compilation work of the index have been taken up by the Census and Statistics Department and the index has been renamed as CPI(C).
