The restructuring of the Chinese airline industry into three major groups is almost complete, according to the General Administration of Civil Aviation of China (CAAC). According to the agreement by the CAAC and its affiliated companies, the three major airline groups to be formed include Air China, China Eastern and China Southern. An Air China spokesman said the regrouping procedure was well under way and would not be thrown off course. A senior official with China Southern Airlines said regrouping would be complete by the end of June. China Eastern Airlines showed the same firm confidence. China Eastern and Wuhan airlines have reached an agreement: China Eastern Airlines owns a 40 per cent shares of Wuhan Airlines while Wuhan Airlines was renamed China Eastern Wuhan Branch. In March, Shandong Airline Group came into being with 10 joint-venture holding companies under it. (XNA, 3 May 02)

Premier Zhu Rongji travelled to the State Press and Publications Administration to inspect its work on 13 December 2001. He indicated: The decision of the CCP Central Committee and the State Council on upgrading the State Press and Publications Administration to a ministerial-level unit is an important step to deepen government restructuring and change government functions. (Xinhua, 13 Dec 01, in BBC PF, 18 Dec 01; RMRB, 14 Dec 01)

The National Social Security Foundation has also been upgraded and is now an institution directly under the State Council (like the Academy of Sciences and Xinhua News Agency).

Regulations on the Handling of Medical Malpractice, adopted at the 55th meeting of the State Council Standing Conference on 20 February 2002. (Order No. 351 of the State Council, signed by Premier Zhu Rongji on 4 April 2002) (Xinhua, 14 Apr 02, in BBC PF, 15 Apr 02, full text: RMRB, 15 Apr 02)

Containing 63 articles in seven chapters, the statute covers various issues concerning medical accidents, such as their prevention and handling, technical appraisal, administrative supervision and compensation. The statute will come into effect on September 1 this year when an old Method on Handling Medical Accidents issued by the State Council in 1987 will be revoked. Protecting the rights of patients and hospitals has become a hot issue in recent years as the number of disputes over medical accidents has increased. (XNA, 15 Apr 02)

The "Amendment to the Import and Export Commodities Inspection Law of the PRC" will officially come into force on 1 October this year. (Decree No. 67 of the President of the PRC, signed by President Jiang Zemin on 28 April 2002)

Import and Export Commodities Inspection Law of the People's Republic of China, adopted at the 6th meeting of the 7th NPC Standing Committee on 21 February 1989, and revised according to the "Decision on amending the 'Import and Export Commodities Inspection Law of the PRC'" at the 27th meeting of the 9th NPC Standing Committee on 28 April 2002. The law consists of 6 chapters with 41 articles. (Full text of the law and the decision: RMRB, 4 Jan 02)

This was the first amendment to the law deliberated and adopted by the NPC Standing Committee since China's entry into the WTO. A person responsible for the General Administration of Quality Supervision and Quarantine said in an interview with Xinhua that revisions mainly in six aspects are found in the "Amendment". He said that viewed from the legal documents relating to China's accession to the WTO, there are 39 provisions on quality inspection, accounting for about 10 per cent of the total, and 16 provisions on legal issues, including those directly relating to the "Commodities Inspection Law", which the Chinese government promised to revise. The amendment to the "Commodities Inspection Law" will enable China's commodity inspection work to meet the needs of the situation following China's entry into the WTO, and to comply with relevant WTO rules. This is also a concrete expression of China's fulfilment of relevant commitments made to foreign countries. The "Commodities Inspection Law" has mainly been amended in six aspects in accordance with China's commitments made in the process of its accession to the WTO. First, the purpose and scope of official inspection have been changed to "protecting human health and safety, protecting the lives and health of animals or plants, protecting the environment, guarding against deception, and safeguarding national security". Second, using common international practices for reference, the title "A Table of Import and Export Commodities to Be Inspected by Commodity Inspection Departments" has been changed to "A Catalogue of Import and Export Commodities That Must Be Inspected". Third, with regard to what should be officially inspected, the original provisions on the specifications, quantities and weights of commodities to be inspected have been changed to "mandatory import and export commodities inspection means activities for evaluating whether or not import and export commodities listed on the catalogue meet the mandatory requirements of national technical standards". Fourth, the basis for inspection has been changed to: "Import and export commodities listed on the catalogue shall be inspected according to the mandatory requirements in the national technical standards" and the provision on inspection according to the agreed standards stated in foreign trade contracts has been deleted. Fifth, with regard to confirmation, it has been explicitly stated that a unified management system shall be used for the confirmation of both import and export commodities and domestic products, thus solving the problem of non-national treatment. Sixth, with regard to the secrecy issue, a provision concerning the obligation of inspection personnel to keep secrets has been added. The responsible person said that in implementing the "Commodities Inspection Law" from 1 August 1989 to the end of 2001, commodity inspection departments across the country have inspected a total of 32.4 million lots of import and export commodities, amounting to 1.33 trillion dollars and accounting for about 40 per cent of the total volume of import and export commodities in the same period in China. Over 270,000 lots of import and export commodities were disqualified. This has enabled the country to avoid losing 26.88bn dollars, and has effectively protected national interests, and the legitimate rights and interests of relevant parties in foreign trade as well as those of the consumers. The practice of the "Commodities Inspection Law" in the past 13 years has proved that the general situation in the implementation of the law is good. (Xinhua, 29 Apr 02, in BBC PF, 2 May 02)

Jiang Zemin, chairman of the Central Military Commission, signed the decree of promulgating and implementing the "Regulations of the Chinese People's Liberation Army [PLA] on Border Defence Talks and Meetings". This is the first time for the PLA to promulgate and implement this kind of regulation, indicating that the PLA's work on border defence talks and meetings began embarking into the orbit of standardization and legalization. As introduced by a responsible officer of a department concerned of the PLA General Staff Headquarters, China is bounded by 15 countries on land, with the boundary line reaching 22,000-plus km. Along the long boundary line, China has set up dozens of frontier stations that are responsible for handling the border and foreign-related affairs with the contiguous states. Over a long period of time, the PLA's work on border defence talks and meetings was conducted mainly according to the relevant regulations of the state and the army. Along with the development of and changes in the border situation and with the gradual legalization of the work of the troops, it was exceedingly necessary for the PLA to draw up a set of regulations regarding the border defence talks and meetings. The "Regulations of the PLA on Border Defence Talks and Meetings" were formulated in accordance with the "PRC's National Defence Law" and the relevant border defence policies and regulations of the State Council and the Central Military Commission, for the purpose of safeguarding the territorial sovereignty and interests of the state and maintaining stability of border areas, thus are the regulations to guide and standardize the whole army's work on border defence talks and meetings. Consisting of five chapters and 52 articles, the regulations have clarified the target of application, as well as such contents as the basic tasks, the position, and the implementation procedures and requirements of border defence talks and meetings. The regulations have stipulated the duties of the departments responsible for the work of the border defence talks and meetings, the duties of representatives of border areas, the duties of the stations where border defence talks and meetings are held, and work systems of border defence talks and meetings. The regulations have clarified the timing to hold talks and meetings, the personnel to participate in the talks and meetings, the forms of contact, the methods of entry and exit, the steps for holding talks and meetings, and the work after the talks and meetings. Taking into consideration all sorts of issues involved in the border defence talks and meetings, the regulations have defined the extent of authorities to negotiate, handle, examine, and approve the related issues; the basic requirements on the persons to hold border defence talks and to participate in border defence meetings; the selection, transfer, and appointment of such persons; and the disciplines these persons must observe. The regulations have also explicitly stipulated the issues of communication, traffic, expenses, barracks, and rewards and punishment. (Xinhua, 1 May 02, in BBC PF, 3 May 02; RMRB, 2 May 02)

Note: Since August 2000, the „resident population“ approach has been adopted in place of the „extended de facto approach for compiling population estimates. In the above table, statistics which are population-related have been revised accordingly and annotated with . CPI(A), CPI(B) and CPI(C) are compiled based on the expenditure patterns of households in the relatively low, medium and relatively high expenditure ranges respectively. A Composite CPI is compiled based on the overall expenditure pattern of all the above households taken together. The CPI(C) was formerly known as the Hang Seng CPI and was compiled by the Hang Seng Bank since 1974. Starting from the reference month of July 1999, the data collection and compilation work of the index have been taken up by the Census and Statistics Department and the index has been renamed as CPI(C).
