Asiens neue Wirtschaftsdynamik: Regionale und internationale Dimensionen

Mitteilungen des Instituts für Asienkunde Hamburg Band 391 Hamburg 2006 147 Seiten € 20.00 ISBN 3-88910-322-7

Der wirtschaftliche Aufstieg Asiens, der angekündigte Anbruch eines "asiatischen Jahrtausends", wurde von der westlichen Wirtschaft zunächst vornehmlich als große Chance gesehen. Inzwischen mischt sich zunehmend Besorgnis, wenn nicht Angst, unter die Euphorie.

Vor diesem Hintergrund veranstaltete das Institut für Asienkunde im Herbst 2004 gemeinsam mit dem Asien-Pazifik-Ausschuss der Deutschen Wirtschaft (APA) eine Tagung zur "neuen Wirtschaftsdynamik" in Asien. Die folgenden überarbeiteten Vorträge – ergänzt um eine Auswahlbibliographie – werden in diesem Band vorgelegt:

- Wie Phönix aus der Asche? Zur Nachhaltigkeit des Wachstumsaufschwungs in Japan (A. Walke)
- Investitionsboom in China Strohfeuer oder Langzeitperspektive? (U. Reisach)
- India Shining? Die Bedeutung Indiens als Wirtschaftspartner (M. v. Hauff)
- Innovationskapazität und Wettbewerbsfähigkeit in Ostasien (M. Schüller/I. Wieczorek)
- Freihandelsabkommen in Ostasien und die Zukunft des Welthandelssystems (D. Nabers)
- Asiens neuer Regionalismus in der Handels- und Finanzpolitik (H. Dieter)

While addressing representatives from over 40 famous multinational corporations at the 19th annual conference of the International Network of Private Business Organizations held in Haikou on 2 November 2005, Hainan Province, Zhang said that China set up the National Working Group on IP Protection in August 2004, with vice-premier Wu Yi as its head, which comprised 12 government departments. Various local governments across China have also established IP protection and supervision departments to strengthen the efforts. China has launched a nationwide IP protection campaign since September 2004 to highlight rectification in the protection of trademark rights, copyrights and patents, and tightened control in the "key linkages" such as imports and exports, exhibitions, wholesale markets, printing and duplication business, according to Zhang. The campaign has made fruitful achievement, he said, adding that over 50,000 infringement cases had been handled by September 2005 with fines up to 376m RMBY (46.36m US$). And over 50m illegal audio-visual products were seized and 19,000 illegal businesses were closed down, in addition to handling of 3,176 cases of counterfeit patents, he added. To step up legal protection of intellectual property rights, the Supreme People's Court and the Supreme People's Procuratorate jointly issued the interpretations on concrete application of laws in dealing with intellectual property infringement cases. Meanwhile, China has stepped up exchanges and cooperation with a large number of relevant international organizations and countries in this respect, including WIPO (World Intellectual Property Organization), the European Union, the United States, Japan, the Republic of Korea, Brazil and Mexico, he said. (XNA, 2 Nov 05)

Hong Kong Chief Executive Donald Tsang said on 20 October that new Secretary for Justice Wong Yanlung (Huang Renlong) will be competent for his post. Tsang made the remark at a press conference that the State Council appointed Wong Yanlung as the new Secretary for Justice with effect from 20 October. Tsang believed that Wong, with his patriotism, gentle and upright disposition as well as professional expertise and reputation, would competently fulfill the role of Secretary for Justice. The Chief Executive said, "I am very much impressed by his commitment to the rule of law, to the legal profession and to Hong Kong." "The rule of law is one of the pillars of Hong Kong's prosperity. It is imperative for us to protect this value. I look forward to working with Wong to uphold the rule of law during my term of office." Wong said that he was greatly honored to assume office as the Secretary for Justice. As head of the department, he would make every possible effort to lead his staff members to fairly and effectively implement the department's duties. He said he would strengthen contacts with the Chinese mainland departments concerned so as to better understand each other for the implementation of the principle of "One Country, Two Systems." Wong Yanlung is 41 years old. Before his present appointment as the Secretary for Justice, he was a lawyer in private practice. He became Deputy High Court Judge of the Court of First Instance in 2003 and Chairman of the Special Committee on Legal Education of the Hong Kong Bar Association from 2003 to 2005. (XNA, 20 Oct 05; RMRB, 21 Oct 05)

Former Chinese Vice-President Rong Yiren died of disease in Beijing on 26 October. He was 89. The remains of Rong Yiren was cremated at the Babaoshan Revolutionary Cemetery in Beijing on 3 November. Hu Jintao, Chinese president and general secretary of the CCP CC, bade farewell to the remains of Rong Yiren, who was also officially praised as an "outstanding representative of the national industrial and commercial circle in modern China", a "superb state leader", and a "great fighter for patriotism and communism". Rong is survived by his son, Larry Yung Chi-kin, and four daughters.

Rong Yiren (nickname "Red Capitalist"), was born to a prestigious family in the country's industrial and commercial circle in Wuxi City, Jiangsu Province, on 1 May 1916. The family moved to Shanghai during the 1930s and became the pioneers of the country's industry and commerce, owning dozens of textile, machinery, printing and dyeing works and flour mills across the country. Rong Yiren began helping his father Rong Desheng manage flour and textile mills and banking companies in 1937. He earned a history degree from the elite, church-founded St John's University in Shanghai. He chose to stay on in China following the communist takeover in 1949, though the majority of his family members had gone overseas, and turned over his family's empire of food and textile factories to the state in 1956. Since 1950, Rong had worked on a series of important positions including Shanghai's vice-mayor and vice-minister of textile industry, until the catastrophic Cultural Revolution (1966-76), during which he suffered a lot. He was later rehabilitated when Deng Xiaoping invited him to help launch economic reforms. He founded the China International Trust and Investment Company (CITIC) under Deng's instructions and became president and general manager of this business flag-carrier of the country. Among the prestigious positions Rong held since 1979 were chairman of the All-China Federation of Industry and Commerce (a noncommunist organisation representing entrepreneurs), honorary chairman of the Association of the Relations across the Taiwan Strait, and chairman of the China Association for Peaceful Promotion of the Reunification. He was vice-chairman of the Standing Committee of the 6th and 7th NPCs, and vice-chairman of the 5th CPPCC National Committee. On 1 July 1985, Rong was admitted into the CCP. Rong Yiren was appointed as vicepresident of the PRC in 1993. He retired in 1998. During the 1989 prodemocracy demonstrations, Rong expressed guarded support for the liberal wing of the party led by ousted party chief Zhao Ziyang. In 2000, the US business magazine Forbes ranked him as China's richest businessman, with a fortune estimated at 1.9b US$ in CITIC shares. Today CITIC controls an empire ranging from telecommunications to infrastructure, banking and real estate. State-owned CITIC, directly controlled by the State Council, has been chaired by Wang Jun, son of late vice-president Wang Zhen, since Rong Yiren stepped down in 1993. There have been persistent rumors that one of former president and party chief Jiang Zemin's sons could take over CITIC from Wang Last summer, a retrospective Jun. exhibition was held in Shanghai to commemorate the 130th birthday of Rong Yiren's father, Rong Desheng, one of the pioneers in China's national capitalism and one of the first entrepreneurs in modern chinese history. Rong's son, Larry Yung, also known as Rong Zhijian, is chairman of CITIC's Hong Kong arm, Citic Pacific (he is owner of an 18 per cent stake). Citic Pacific is overseeing key investments in Cathay Pacific Airways and Hong Kong Telecom. It took over trading house DCH. According to Forbes magazine's annual ranking of China's wealthiest people, Rong Zhijian, 63, maintained his perch atop the magazine's list of the country's richest. The 2005 list, released Nov 3, shows Rong and his family with assets of 1,64b US$, 150m US$ more than last year. ... At the beginning of the state visit by Chinese President Hu Jintao in Berlin, several economic agreements in the value of over 1bn euros were signed. In addition to the delivery of 60 high-speed trains by Siemens, the agreements also include a telephone accord with Arcor as well as a framework agreement on solar modules. The FDP [Free Democratic Party] and human rights groups demanded that, notwithstanding German economic interests, observance of human rights in China must also be demanded. President Horst Koehler, who greeted his Chinese guest at Charlottenburg Palace with military honours, called for stronger democratization in China. Although every country must find its "own way", human rights are universally valid. At the same time, Koehler expressed himself satisfied with bilateral relations. Meanwhile, Economics Minister Wolfgang Clement (SPD) [Social Democratic Party of Germany] advocated even closer relations with China. In view of trade dynamics, there is the justified hope of reaching the goal of a goods exchange in the amount of 100bn euros by 2010, he said, regarding the volume of 53.2bn euros already achieved. However, the minister deplored an imbalance in trade, since German imports of Chinese goods continue to grow strongly, while exports of German goods had dropped by 4.7 per cent in the first eight months [of 2005]. Clement solicited more Chinese direct investment in Germany and simultaneously warned of widespread product piracy by Chinese firms. According to estimates, the share of fake products is 5 to 9 per cent, which corresponds to an approximate trade volume of The largest part al-250bn euros. legedly comes from China. ## Senegal (Oct 25)

China and Senegal resumed diplomatic ties at the ambassadorial level as of 25 October 2005, the Chinese Foreign Ministry announced in Bei-Chinese Foreign Minister Li jing. Zhaoxing and Senegalese State Minister of Foreign Affairs Cheikh Tidiane Gadio signed a joint communique on the resumption of diplomatic relations between the People's Republic of China and the Republic of Senegal on behalf of their respective governments. According to the joint communique, the resumption of diplomatic ties between the two countries is in accordance with the "interests and aspiration of the two peoples". The two countries have agreed to resend ambassadors to each other's countries and provide convenience for the work of each other's embassies on an equal footing, the communique says. The Chinese government supports the efforts made by the Senegalese government to safeguard state sovereignty and develop economy, the communique says. The Senegalese government recognizes that there is only one China in the world and the government of the People's Republic of China is the sole legitimate government representing the whole China. Taiwan is an inseparable part of the Chinese territory, the communique says. The Chinese government expresses appreciation of the above stance adopted by the Senegalese government, it says. After the signing ceremony, Li and Gadio held official talks, during which they had an in-depth exchange of views on bilateral ties and issues of common interest and reached broad consensus. Sources with the Chinese Foreign Ministry said that Chinese Premier Wen Jiabao and State Councillor Tang Jiaxuan also met with Gadio, respectively. (XNA, 25 Oct 05)

Singapore (Nov 30)

Singapore's airlines can look forward to an unlimited number of flights to all Chinese cities under a pact signed by the two countries, the Republic's Transport Minister Yeo Cheow Tong said in Beijing. Mr Yeo and China's Civil Aviation Minister Yang Yuanyuan inked the landmark agreement lifting restrictions on direct air services between China and Singapore. Airlines on both sides currently operate more than 170 weekly passenger and all-cargo services between Singapore and 18 Chinese cities -more than twice the number five years ago. The new pact fully opens up the fastgrowing China aviation market to Singapore Airlines, although spokesman Stephen Forshaw said the carrier had no plans yet to increase its number of flights to China. The national carrier and its sister airline, SilkAir, currently operate 81 weekly passenger flights to nine cities in China, while its subsidiary SIA Cargo flies to five Chinese cities. The agreement also allows lowcost carriers Tiger Airways and the merged entity of Valuair and Jetstar Asia to fly to Guangzhou and other cities in China. A Transport Ministry spokesman told The Straits Times that Beijing and Shanghai would remain closed to the two budget airlines. but that the agreement opens up the other lucrative route of Guangzhou to them. The expanded air services pact is a rare one and comes amid increasing high-level contacts between the two countries. ... Air passenger traffic in China is likely to grow 7.3

per cent annually until 2023, faster than the global average of 5.2 per cent in the same period, according to a June estimate by Boeing, the world's second-largest commercial aircraft maker. The fact that businessmen can travel more easily between the two countries could boost trade and investments for both economies, Mr Yeo told The Straits Times. 'Increased cargo flights means it will be easier for manufacturers in Singapore to supply their components and products to China,' he added. With Chinese tourist arrivals to the republic hitting double-digit growth in recent years, 'there is a clear demand for flights to Singapore and tourism exchange can only be enhanced', said Singapore Tourism Board's regional director for greater China, Mr Edmund Chua. A Jetstar official said it was keen to explore the opportunities, while Tiger Airways said it had received the go-ahead from Singapore authorities to fly to three mainland cities. Tiger, which currently does not operate flights to China, is waiting for approval from the Chinese authorities. (ST, 2 Dec 05)

United States (Nov 08)

China and the United States signed a memorandum on trade in textile and apparel in London. The memorandum, signed by China's Minister of Commerce Bo Xilai and US trade representative Rob Portman, covers 21 of China's textile products exported to the United States. The memorandum will be effective from 1 January 2006 to the end of 2008. (XNA, 8 Nov 05) A press spokesman for the Ministry of Commerce said on 8 November that the settlement of the Sino-US textile issue conforms to the common interests of enterprises of the two countries and is conducive to promoting stable development of bilateral economic and trade relations. On 8 November, China and the United States reached an agreement on the textile issue. On this, the spokesman of the Chinese Ministry of Commerce fielded questions from reporters. The spokesman said: The China-US textile agreement will become effective on 1 January 2006 and end on 31 December 2008. China and the United States have agreed that during the period of agreement, quotas will be imposed on cotton trousers and 20 other types of Chinese textile products imported to the United States, including 11 types of apparel products and 10 types of textile products. Of the 21 types, 16 belong to the integrated products of 2005; and five, to the integrated products before 2002. The base figure of negotiated products for 2006 is basically the actual number of relevant products imported from China to the United States in 2005; and the base figures for 2007 and 2008 are the same as the negotiated numbers of the preceding year. The number of products negotiated will increase annually by

10 to 15 per cent in 2006; by 12.5 to 16 per cent in 2007; and by 15to 17 per cent in 2008. According to the agreement, the US side will refrain from applying Section 242 to Chinese textile products not covered by the agreement. The United States will immediately grant customs clearance to all Chinese textile products currently blocked at the US due to the obstacle set up by Section 242. These cargoes will be excluded from calculating the number for negotiations. The spokesman said: Since the integration, the US side had frequently imposed restrictions on Chinese textile products under Section 242 of the "Report of the Working Group on China's Accession to the WTO", thereby destabilizing the textile trade between the two countries to the maximum and adversely affecting the normal, orderly development of bilateral trade. The Chinese and US industrial circles strongly demanded that the governments of the two countries reach an agreement through negotiations to create a stable and predictable trade environment for the textile industry of both countries and to safeguard bilateral economic and trade relations and the overall situation of development. In view of the common concerns of the two sides, the Chinese and US governments, after seven rounds of negotiations, finally reached an agreement based on equality and mutual benefit. The settlement of the textile issue is in line with the common interests of Chinese and US enterprises. (Xinhua, 8 Nov 05, in BBC PF, 9 Nov 05)

Chinese and European Union officials signed an agreement on cooperation in government procurement in Beijing on 2 November, under which the two sides will establish a regular dialogue on government procurement. Under the agreement, Chinese finance officials and their European counterparts will meet once every year for a dialogue on matters concerning government procurement, including legislation, implementation of government procurement rules, practice and cooperation between governments and private businesses. The agreement was signed by Zhang Hongli, assistant minister of finance of China, and Alexander Schaub, director-general of the European Internal Market and Services of the European Commission. Zhang Hongli said government procurement was introduced only late last century and China can learn quite a lot from Europe on ways to regulate and promote government procurement. In a statement, the Chinese Ministry of Finance described the agreement as the first concrete measure taken by the two sides follow-

China and the European Union (EU) signed a memorandum of understanding (MOU) in Brussels on 11 November to set up a consultation and cooperation mechanism on product safety. Both sides have agreed to exchange information and establish a series of joint initiatives to help safeguard consumers' health and safety. "The MOU is a voluntary agreement between legislators on food and non-food product safety, which aims to promote common interests and enhance the safety of products traded between the regions," said a press release of the European Commission. The agreement will also help in reaching solutions to any trade problems and in forging a common view on safety standards, it added. China is the EU's second largest trading partner, accounting for 8.8 per cent of the EU's total trade in 2004. Food products and consumer goods such as electrical appliances, toys, household items and clothing, make up a large proportion of the EU's imports from China. In the area of non-food consumer goods, the agreement focuses on developing and improving communication channels between the EU and China authorities in order to raise the overall level of product safety. In 2004, the EU imported over 2b euros (about 2.4b US$) worth of Chinese agricultural goods and food, while exporting over 1b euros (about 1.2b US$) worth of such products to China. The Chinese government and the European Space Agency signed cooperation agreement in Beijing on 18 November on space cooperation for peaceful purposes. Chinese State Councillor Chen Zhili met Jean-Jacques Dordain, director-general of the European Space Agency (ESA), and attended the signing ceremony. Chen said space cooperation between China and the ESA is of great significance, and the two sides have carried out quite a number of cooperation programmes for peaceful purposes. "The signing of the Cooperation Agreement between the Government of the People's Republic of China and the European Space Agency Concerning Space Cooperation for Peaceful Purposes would raise the bilateral space cooperation to a new level," Chen noted. For 30 years, the ESA has worked for promoting space cooperation for peaceful purposes between European countries. The agreement would provide effective cooperation mechanism for China and the ESA to expand space cooperation, sources with the China National Space Administration said. (XNA, 18 Nov 05)

Beijing Olympic organizers and the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) signed a memorandum of understanding in Beijing on 18 November to promote environmental protection in staging the 2008 Beijing Olympics. Under the agreement, the UNEP will provide the Beijing Organizing Committee for the 2008 Olympics (BOCOG) with data and technical resources on environmental issues. Klaus Toepfer, executive director of the UNEP, said that the memorandum of understanding is aimed at helping Beijing with its proposals in areas ranging from air, water and noise pollution up to transport, landscaping and the disposal of solid wastes. "Big sports events always run the risk of burdens on the environment," said Toepfer at the signing ceremony. "Let's all join hands and work for a safe and wonderful environment," he added. Green Olympics, Hightech Olympics and People's Olympics are the three concepts that Beijing uses to promote the 2008 Games. In line with the Green Olympics concept, the Chinese capital has been making great efforts to improve its environment. The UNEP started cooperating with the International Olympic Committee a decade ago to make the Olympic Games more environmentally friendly. (XNA, 18 Nov 05)

Hong Kong SAR Agreement with the Mainland (Oct 18)

The Chinese mainland and the HK-SAR signed the legal text of the third phase of the Mainland & Hong Kong Closer Economic Partnership Arrangement, known as CEPA III. Under the new arrangement, the mainland has agreed to give all products of Hong Kong origin tariff-free status from 1 January, 2006, upon applications by local manufacturers and upon the CEPA rules of origin being agreed and met. Also, there are 23 liberalization measures spreading across 10 areas under CEPA III, namely legal, accounting, audiovisual, construction, distribution, banking, securities, tourism, transport and individually owned stores. Textiles and clothing products under Hong Kong's Outward Processing Arrangement have already been exempted from the mainland's regime of export duty. Financial Secretary of the HKSAR government Henry Tang and Vice-Minister of Commerce Liao Xiaoqi signed the legal text after the High Level Meeting of the Joint Steering Committee under CEPA. Tang said the move will offer new business opportunities in the mainland for Hong Kong and enhance its attractiveness to overseas investors. It will also help sustain Hong Kong's broad-based economic recovery and spawn new jobs. According to Tang, 29,000 new jobs have been created since implementation of CEPA I. Tang said the scheme is an open and developing platform, and he is anticipating its continued development. Liao said mainland authorities attach great importance to Hong Kong's economic development, adding all measures which can help the special administrative region maintain its prosperity and stability will be carefully considered. Contingency Regulations for Major Animal Epidemics, adopted at

Provincial governments should report major animal epidemic cases to the State Council, China's highest governing body, within four hours after they learned them, according to a new State Council regulation. The regulation, which was released on 20 November, also requires county or city governments to report such cases to provincial authorities within a matter of just two hours. It was issued when China reported an increasing number of avian flu outbreaks; on 20 November, the Ministry of Agriculture confirmed another two outbreaks of the deadly H5N1 subtype avian flu cases in north China's Inner Mongolia Autonomous Region and central Hubei Province. The regulation is aimed at "controlling and stamping out major animal epidemic cases as soon as possible, ensuring the safety of breeding industry, protecting people's health and lives and safeguarding the normal social order." The animal epidemic includes avian flu and other animal diseases with a high incidence or fatality, it noted. The regulation said that local government officials who neglect the performance of their duties will be removed from their official posts and even be prosecuted. Those who take the chance to embezzle emergency funds or drive up goods prices and cheat consumers will also be penalized. It lists detailed preparations and emergency measures to cope with animal epidemic cases. Armymen and police across China should support the efforts made by local governments to control animal epidemic, the State Council regulation said. (XNA, 20 Nov 05)
