Wu Yaowen

Vice-President of PetroChina. In a move widely seen as punishment for the Chongqing gas field explosion, PetroChina has reshuffled its top management, and five of its employees have been detained. The disaster three weeks ago killed 243 people and forced the evacuation of 60,000 residents. Wu Yaowen, vice-president of PetroChina, has left the company, and six executives have been named to positions as vice-president or assistant general manager. The decision was announced by Ma Fucui, chairman of PetroChina's parent company, CNPC [China National Petroleum Corporation], at a planning meeting on 6 January 2004. ... The departure of Mr Wu and the new appointments were widely interpreted in the mainland press as retaliation for the explosion. The Beijing Star Daily said Mr Wu "was fired due to the explosions at Chongqing". However, PetroChina spokeswoman Lu Ying said the management changes were standard procedure for the company at the beginning of the year. "It's quite a normal change in our company. We usually announce personnel changes at the working meeting." Mr Wu turned 60 in September and was ready for retirement, Ms Lu said, adding that two vice-presidents retired at the same time last year. Given the seriousness of the accident - and assuming the personnel changes are unrelated - analysts said additional management changes could be in the cards. "I am not convinced the axe has fallen," said one oil executive in Beijing. Speculation is making the rounds in the capital that executives directly responsible for operations may be under pressure to resign. "The impact of this was enormous locally," one oil executive said. "Ma is under enormous pressure because of the loss of life and damage to the environment, and problems his company has caused to the Chinese government." (SCMP, 10 Jan 04)

Hong Kong SAR Agreement with Belgium (Dec 10)

Hong Kong signed its first comprehensive agreement for the avoidance of double taxation with another economy (Belgium). Hong Kong government and Belgium entered into the Agreement on the Avoidance of Double Taxation and the Prevention of Fiscal Evasion with Respect to Taxes on Income and on Capital. It will bring tax savings to Hong Kong and Belgian investors doing businesses in each other's jurisdictions, and provide a further level of certainty in tax liabilities, thus helping promote investment and trade between the two places. Establishing a network of comprehensive agreement for the avoidance of double taxation will put Hong Kong on a par with other places in the region and further enhance its competitiveness in attracting foreign investment. Signing the agreement in Hong Kong, Hong Kong's Secretary for Financial Services and the Treasury Frederick Ma said it ensures investors will not have to pay tax twice on a single source of income. In the absence of the agreement, profits earned by Belgian residents in Hong Kong are subject to both Hong Kong and Belgian income taxes. Profits derived by Belgian companies from Hong Kong by doing business here through a permanent establishment (such as a branch) are subject to both Hong Kong profits tax and Belgian income tax. Belgian tax authorities provide a relief of 50 percent reduction in Belgian income tax for such income derived by Belgian individuals on a unilateral basis. The agreement will see Belgium eliminate double taxation by providing full exemption to Belgian residents (companies and individuals alike) for such income. Subject to the completion of ratification procedures, the agreement will take effect for Hong Kong taxes from April 1, and Belgian taxes from January 1, 2004. (XNA, 10 Dec 03)

The Chinese mainland and Hong Kong closer tourism cooperation agreement was signed in Hong Kong, signifying their closer tourism cooperation and exchange. The documents were signed by the director of the China National Tourism Administration, He Guangwei, and Hong Kong's secretary for economic development and labour, Stephen Ip. After the signing ceremony, Ip said the agreement marked a milestone in the growth of the tourism industries for both the mainland and Hong Kong. According to the agreement, both parties agreed to encourage more travel between the two places; to support the tourism industry via mutual tourism trade and promotion; to step up tourism publicity overseas to draw more tourists to the mainland and Hong Kong; and to take measures to protect tourists' rights. It is expected that the agreement will bring more business opportunities for the tourism industry in both the mainland and Hong Kong.

Both sides will strengthen cooperation to promote tourism development and products more actively, said Ip. He Guangwei said that Hong Kong has become the largest overseas destination of mainland tourists. Over the past six years, more than 32 million mainland tourists have visited Hong Kong. At the same time, Hong Kong is the major source of overseas tourists visiting Chinese mainland. The newly signed agreement will benefit the both sides, He Guangwei said. (XNA, 19 Dec 03)

Zhang said China has always been active in formulating a legal instrument against corruption worldwide. China's position during the negotiations has been "sincere, cooperative and realistic" and China has contributed positively to the establishment of the treaty, said the vice-minister. In order to implement the treaty in China, a code of conduct is being developed for the public services at every level of government to foster self-discipline in the administration, he said. PRC Laws and Regulations

The Law on Banking Supervision of the People's Republic of China, adopted at the 6th session of the 10th NPC Standing on 27 December 2003, is hereby promulgated and will be in force starting 1 February 2004. (Presidential Decree No 11, signed by State President Hu Jintao on 27 December 2003) (Xinhua, 27 Dec 03, in BBC PF, 29 Dec 03)

During an interview on 27 December with this reporter, a responsible person of the China Banking Regulatory Commission indicated: The "Law of the PRC on Banking Supervision and Administration" (hereinafter abbreviated as "Banking Supervision Law") officially voted through at the 6th meeting of the Standing Committee of the 10th NPC has two major characteristics: Large numbers of advanced ideas in international banking supervision and administration were absorbed and banking legal systems in other countries or regions used for reference; it standardizes and restrains the workings of supervisory and administrative powers as well as defines the supervisory and administrative bodies' duties and strengthens supervisory and administrative means and measures.

This responsible person said: The "Banking Supervision Law" is the country's first specialized law for banking supervision and administration. [Passage omitted]

Contents brought into the "Banking Supervision Law" after absorbing and drawing lessons from advanced international experiences will lay a sound legal foundation for improving the effectiveness of banking supervision and administration in the country.

On the one hand, the "Banking Supervision Law" appropriately empowers the supervisory and administrative bodies to employ supervisory and administrative means and measures, thus providing necessary legal support for carrying out effective supervision and administration. For instance, the "Banking Supervision Law" provides that the supervisory and administrative bodies have the rights to ask financial institutions in the banking industry to file various statements, reports, and material; to take over, reorganize, or remove problem financial institutions in the banking industry and take necessary restrictive measures against their directors or senior managerial personnel directly in charge and other directly responsible personnel; to inquire about the deposits of people suspected of having acted against financial laws or apply to judicial organs for freezing illicit funds; and others.

Furthermore, the "Banking Supervision Law" standardizes and restrains the workings of supervisory and administrative powers, forming stringent mechanisms of supervision, constraint, and accountability for the supervisory and administrative bodies. For instance, the "Banking Supervision Law" provides that the supervisory and administrative bodies ought to establish a supervisory and administrative responsibility system and internal supervisory system and provides for procedural requirements and supervisory and constraining measures for supervisory and administrative bodies exercising supervisory and administrative powers and taking supervisory and administrative measures; provides for the State Council's auditing, supervision, and other organs to carry out external supervision over the banking supervisory and administrative bodies in accordance with the law and requires that the supervisory and administrative bodies enhance work transparency and accept social supervision by the public; and provides for the supervisory and administrative bodies' corresponding legal responsibilities in doing their duties and obligations, exercising supervisory and administrative powers, and taking supervisory and administrative measures. The "Banking Supervision Law" systematically established, in the form of law, mechanisms of supervision, constraint, and accountability for government apparatuses; this is a legislative innovation in the country's legal system. (Xinhua, 27 Dec 03, in BBC PF, 29 Dec 03)

The CCP CC and the Central Military Commission (CMC) have approved the amended Provisions on the Political Work of the Chinese People's Liberation Army (PLA). One of the main changes on the previous version, which was published in 1995, is the inclusion of the important thought of "Three Representations", which says the CCP always represents the most advanced productivity and culture in China and the fundamental interests of the overwhelming majority of the Chinese people. The second major addition is CMC Chairman Jiang Zemin's instruction that the army must be put under the absolute leadership of the Party. The new contents also comprise the experience obtained by the PLA's political commissars and new requirements for the army in the high-tech era, said PLA sources. (XNA, 16 Dec 03)

Addenda

Regulations on Managing Production Safety in Construction Projects (see C.a., 2003/11, p.1403/27), approved at the 28th Executive Meeting of the State Council. The regulations will take effect on 1 February 2004. (Decree No. 393 of the State Council, signed by Premier Wen Jiabao on 24 November 2003) (Full text: RMRB, 23 Dec 03)

The regulations consist of eight chapters and 71 articles covering general provisions; safety-related liabilities of construction-initiating agencies; safety-related liabilities of relevant agencies in charge of prospecting, designing, supervising projects, etc.; safety-related liabilities of developers; supervision and management; emergency rescue and handling of investigations in the event of production safety accidents; legal liabilities; and supplementary provisions.

The goal of putting forth these regulations is to strengthen the supervision and management of production safety in construction projects to ensure the safety of the people's lives and that of their properties.

These regulations must be followed while undertaking construction, expansion, reconstruction, demolition, and other related construction work within the boundaries of the People's Republic of China, and while carrying out any supervision and management of production safety in construction projects.

The regulations stipulate that the management of production safety in construction projects shall strictly abide by the principles of safety first and prevention first.

The regulations stipulate: construction-initiating agencies, prospecting agencies, designing agencies, developers, project supervising agencies, and other agencies related to production safety in construction projects must abide by laws and regulations on production safety, guarantee safe production in construction projects, and shoulder construction work production safety liabilities according to law.

The term construction projects mentioned in these regulations refer to civil engineering projects, architectural projects, and installation and fixture projects for circuits, piping, and other equipment.

The regulations stipulate that the state encourages scientific and technological research in construction work safety, the promotion and application of related advanced technologies, and the advancement of scientific management of construction work safety. (Xinhua, 6 Dec 03, in BBC PF, 13 Dec 03)

China has issued its first state regulation on construction safety, which will take effect on Feb. 1, 2004, Minister of Construction Wang Guangtao said on 12 December. Wang said at a nationally televised conference on the regulation that the regulation marks a new stage of development for China's construction safety management work. Wang said China is seeing rising construction accidents this year. Statistics show that from January to October this year, a total of 1,001 accidents happened in the country's construction sites, killing 1,174 people. China's fast economic growth helped shore up the real estate industry, making it the fourth backbone industry of the country, said Wang. But he noted that the climbing accident cases and death tolls in construction sites have also aroused public concern. Currently, the increase of deaths at construction sites have accounted for about 60 percent of the total deaths from all kinds of accidents, said Wang. Wang said one major reason for these accidents is the construction companies' illegal operation during the construction. And even some projects were found to have no permission for construction. Wang said that targeting those problems in the construction area, the new regulation sets up sound regulations and rules to curb illegal operations, and makes clear the obligations for construction safety of each participant. In addition, the new regulation reinforces legal punishment for illegal operation. The new regulation will surely help improve China's safety level in construction areas, said Wang, adding that the Ministry of Construction will take time to make relevant rules and regulations to help carry out the new regulation. The ministry will also launch a national campaign to strengthen national construction safety, and try to reduce relevant accidents in the next year, Wang said. (XNA, 12 Dec 03)

A Composite CPI is compiled based on the overall expenditure pattern of all the above households taken together. The CPI(C) was formerly known as the Hang Seng CPI and was compiled by the Hang Seng Bank since 1974. Starting from the reference month of July 1999, the data collection and compilation work of the index have been taken up by the Census and Statistics Department and the index has been renamed as CPI(C).
